Dobry is new editor and publisher of the Pine Cone

The ownership of the Carmel Pine Cone changed hands effective April 1.

George M. Dobry of Carmel Valley purchased the newspaper from the Post Road Publishing Co. of Layfayette, which has operated it since last August. During this time Wayne Everton has directed its operation as general manager, while John Mustard has been publisher.

Dobry will serve as both editor and publisher. Charles Strosnider continues in his position of sales manager, and Al Eisner is now managing editor, as well as assisting in advertising sales.

In commenting on his purchase of the Pine Cone, Dobry said, "The Pine Cone has a great tradition as the local newspaper serving this unique and beautiful community, and we will dedicate ourselves to building the newspaper, and improving it wherever possible, in the spirit of this tradition."

The Pine will continue to be published at its location on Dolores Street, and the newspaper will be printed in Carmel Valley instead of Watsonville, where it has been printed for the past six months.

Dobry is also the publisher of the Carmel Valley Outlook, which he purchased late in 1968. Prior to this, he was editor and publisher of the Holtville Tribune for 5 years and the Taft Daily Midway Driller for 6 years.

A native of St. Paul, Nebraska, Dobry received a Master's Degree in Journalism from Columbia University, New York City, and served in the U.S. Navy during World War II. From 1957 until 1959 he was with the U.S. Information Agency at Manila, Philippines, as editor of Free World Magazine.

Dobry also expressed his appreciation to Wayne Everton for his cooperation in the change of ownership, and extended his best wishes for his continued success, with his partners, in their extensive newspaper operations in the Lafayette area, where they now publish three weekly newspapers.

Anyone who has moved since November 1968 or did not vote in the General Election at that time must re-register. Mrs. John Rennels is campaign chairman.

Del Monte has 7½c dividend

The Board of Directors of Del Monte Properties Company at their meeting held March 25 declared a regular quarterly dividend of 7-1/2¢ per share on 1,453,100 shares of Common Stock.

The dividend will be paid June 1, 1970 to shareholders of record May 15.

Visitors from Rio

Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Dewars of Pebble Beach welcomed Jairo and Rosa Maria Costa of Rio de Janeiro as house guests recently.

The couples visited Fisherman's Wharf and also attended the British-American polo matches and the Alliance Francaise Mi-Careme Ball.

The Costas are spending their summer vacation here, for Rio de Janeiro is in the Southern Hemisphere.

Have you heard the oft-repeated suggestion made by a Carmel mayor, Perry Newberry, many years ago, that a fence should be built and toll gates established at the entrances to Carmel? And are you one of the many who is being hurt more and more, year after year, by steeply rising property taxation?

If you are familiar with the Perry Newberry suggestion and if you are only too painfully aware of burgeoning property taxation, you may well have wondered why city fathers haven't sometime taken seriously the Newberry proposal because it could conceivably have led to a reduction in city taxation of local property owners.

Some 10 or 11 years ago I proposed to the City Council a variation on the Newberry theme, which lawyers seemed to think would be ruled legal. The proposal had been worked out by Col. W. W. Yale (USA, Ret.), then a Stanford Research Institute analyst, in his spare time, and at no cost to the City of Carmel.

Yale proposed, and I tried unsuccessfully to have the City Council accept, the establishment of an annual parking-permit fee by the City of Carmel. Such a fee — and the fee originally suggested was a dollar a year — could have produced sufficient revenue, according to Col. Yale, to have replaced all the then existing city property tax, even if only as little as 25% of the potential total of fees to have become due, could have been actually collected.

Every weekend in the year — and most especially during busy weekends such as the last one — there are tens of thousands of cars going down to the beach, often without even stopping uptown, whose occupants use — and litter — the City beach, without ever paying a single cent for the privilege.

The Yale proposal, or some modification of it, could compel such 'one-day wonders', as they have sometimes been called, to pay something for using Carmel as a recreation ground, and also lead to substantial property tax reduction.

By now we all know that the Sanitary District's bond issue failed to pass by a very narrow margin — fifty five votes in fact short of the two-thirds majority needed.

There is no question that we need the new plant to provide for the improved treatment of sewage that is required to keep abreast of the state standards which have been set up to keep our ocean waters free of pollution. I feel certain that the Sanitary District Board will now analyze the various reasons why the bond issue didn't secure the necessary majority of votes and will inform the public to secure its full support when the issue is once again placed on the ballot.

Can anyone doubt that we must prepare ahead of time to take care of the many visitors coming to our community to spend a few of their vacation days on our beaches and charming downtown areas. I'm sure that our Easter week visitors are convinced that we always have the glorious sunshiny weather we experienced last week. They will be back — many of them to look for permanent homes. And when they do we must assure them of pollution free beaches.

An to do so, nothing less than secondary treatment of our sewage is going to be satisfactory and then as technology advances, complete reclamation of the water to be returned for our further use.

As a candidate for a seat on our City Council, as well as a residential property owner in Carmel, it is my duty to inform you as to why I am qualified for this office, and where I stand on issues as they come before the Council. I have attempted to accomplish this with statements in the local papers.

One of my principal statements as a candidate has been, and will remain to be, that I wish to be truly representative. This, together with independence and my experience as an administrator in city government, will serve to provide solutions in the best interest of the citizens. I believe it is important to restate that if we do not preserve our environment, both in the business and the residential districts, we will have lost for all time Carmel as we know it today. While we must preserve this environment which is integral and sound to Carmel, we must accommodate conveniences to our ever-changing living standards. This, coupled with a detachment between city government and the people, more than any other single cause, accounts for a dwindling effectiveness of government and the increasing frustration of the average citizen.

I believe these problems can be corrected by open and direct public meetings and in welcoming the thoughts of others in all subjects affecting the city.

I wonder how many of our Carmel citizens know and appreciate the efficient Police Department we have in Carmel. Personally I have never lived in any area and had the feeling of safety that I have enjoyed in this small village.

Even though conditions are changing and the problems of our law enforcement officials have increased with the times, we still have, under the able leadership of our Chief Clyde Klaumann, the best police department in this area.

As your City Councilman and Police Commissioner for the past two years, I wish I could take credit for this efficient department. But Clyde was Chief of Police of Carmel before I moved here 19 years ago.

Now the reason for this article -- Clyde Klaumann is eligible for retirement. There are some rumors that he might retire, but we need him right where he is as he is eligible to stay on for six more years.

It isn't that there is not capable leadership under him to take over, as there is. It's because Chief Klaumann was born and raised on this peninsula, he grew up here, went to school here and was an officer with the Monterey Police Department prior to coming to Carmel as chief.

No one has a better knowledge of this area, its customs, its people and their problems than Clyde Klaumann. He has been a dedicated Chief of Police. Everyone should let him know we appreciate him.

I am a candidate for election Tuesday, April 14th so that I may continue as your councilman for a four year term. If elected, I'll do my best to influence Chief Klaumann to stay so we can keep his leadership a few more years.

Letter To The Editor

Big Sur,
March 27, 1970

Dear Editor:

Many of your readers are now aware that the unique little animal, the sea otter, swimming and playing in our coastal waters, is actually in jeopardy through the introduction of Senator Grunsky's Bill 442. Although the Senator claimed publicly (March 24) that 'no extermination of the sea otter will occur except over my dead body' — he maintained his stand on the Bill and remarked that he did not intend to amend it.

How, one might ask, can a Bill which opens the door to 'hunt, pursue, catch, capture or kill' the sea otter, pledge, in the same breath, a defense of the otter? How, one might ask, can the potential issuing of 'a permit' to private enterprize to take otters for their beautiful skins, or to capture otters for private zoos be a protective measure for otters? (Even the U. S. Bureau of Fish and Wildlife is shocked at this proposal.)

Those of you who take pleasure in watching the sea otters with their young along the rocks by Carmel Point, along the shores of Pebble Beach, in the kelp off Pacific Grove, floating on their backs in Monterey Bay — take note. All of these otters are 'outside the Refuge' and the Grunsky Bill proposes to legalize 'taking' them.

Remember, these animals are unique, rare and 'Protected.' They are a fragile remnant of the former great herds that populated the coast. The most we have ever counted is 1024 — and this small number has been blamed for cleaning up the over-harvest of abalone by man. The commercial abalone hauls depleted the beds around Monterey before the sea otter had even been sighted. Forty years ago, this month, the Monterey abalone fishermen brought in 1,000 dozen abalones the first day of the season. They had taken 41 million pounds before they had forced themselves to turn their total attention to exploit the Morro Bay region. In 1968 the industry harvested 1,776,540 pounds of abalone, the highest ever recorded. Last year, the decline of abalone haul caused the industry to look for a culprit other than themselves. Thus, they have killed otters and threaten to 'kill 500 otters' when the commercial take is gone. Even Senator Grunsky says the industry 'will be finished in two to three years.' Are we going to permit another resource, the sea otter, to be taken too? These resources belong to all of us!

Carmel School Board takes up many problems

Parents of fifth graders at Tularcitos School have requested a public hearing to discuss next year's transference of the Tularcitos sixth grade to Middle School. Parents and members of the School Board will review the issue at the April 8 Board meeting of the Carmel Unified School District.

Ronald Jameson, whose children attend Tularcitos, pointed out that a letter sent to parents of fifth grade Tularcitos School students arrived too late for evaluation and action before the measure was brought before the School Board for a vote.

Those parents who attended the Mar. 11 Board meeting to discuss the measure, did not know that a vote would be taken at that session. They felt there should have been more study and discussion before a final decision was made.

Finally Jameson said that the letter was only sent to fifth graders. He and some of the other parents at the meeting felt that the parents of third and fourth graders should be allowed to be heard as their children will also be affected by the ruling.

At next month's meeting, the item will be discussed. Parents and educators will re-evaluate the educational advantages of moving Tularcitos School's sixth grade to Middle School and review the economic problems involved in the change.

The Board also continued its efforts to make a decision about the location of the bus compound. The County Road Department has withdrawn plans for the development of the Roach Canyon property and the Board is now re-examining the Carmelo and Middle School sites.

Board members pointed out to visitors at the meeting that the idea to establish a bus compound and maintenance area in conjunction with the County Road Department was originally the Road Department's idea. The School District agreed to combine facilities with the Department but the District did not instigate the proposed co-development program.

Superintendent Harris Taylor said that each of the sites investigated had certain advantages and disadvantages but that nearly everyone who had looked at the Canyon sites and those at Carmelo and Middle School, felt that the area near Middle School was the most advantageous location.

Taylor also said that the bus garage should be near the center of student population. He felt that the central location of the Middle School area was an advantage for it will be some time before the Canyon sites are near the center of student activities.

Trustee Steven H. Sassoon pointed out that the Middle School site may one day become too conjested. There are plans to build a new elementary school in the area and the High School is to be relocated there, also. But Sassoon added that if new construction is carefully planned, there should be no great problem. Access roads would not go through the new high school campus.

Trustee James I. Miller felt that the time will come when the site proposed for the bus compound will be sorely needed by the District. He said that there was, at present, no carefully laid out development plan for the area. Miller strongly believed that it would be most unwise to tie up land that might be needed in the future.

The Board will review further the pros and cons of the Middle School and Carmelo sites at a later meeting.

A proposal for a district wide single-session kindergarten program of 180 minutes a session was discussed. At the present time the kindergartens are run in double sessions of 150 minutes each.

The implementation of a single session program will require the employment of two additional kindergarten teachers at an estimated cost of $22,000. Though the introduction of a single-session program will require added annual expenditure, Supt. Taylor urged that the change be made to avoid a reduction in state aid next year. He said that since the kindergarten classes will have to run single session in two years, it would be to the advantage of the District to get the program moving in order to achieve quality and ease in its development.

Supt. Taylor also pointed out that to achieve a correct balance in class sizes, school boundary adjustments must be made.

The formation of a committee to evaluate the educational system was requested at last week's Board meeting of the Carmel Unified School District. The request was submitted by a group of parents headed by Dr. Edward Arana of Carmel.

The committee would consist of two professional teachers to be selected by lottery, one retired teacher and three interested lay citizens.

Board president, Hilton M. Bialek, commented that the Board recognizes the fact that problems do exist within the educational system, but to establish a grievance committee in the manner requested would set a dangerous precident by eliminating public hearings between the board and any citizens who might want to attend meetings.

Trustee James Brock said that an investigation committee would be superfluous. Difficulties regarding the grading system and standards of excellence are continually being investigated by the Board. There are also three committees presently at work on the drug problem.

Brock pointed out that the lack of discipline problem should be handled in the home as children are only in school for six hours a day.

The Board felt that the items covered in the request were too large to be handled by one committee. Interested people should investigate specific problems. Then citizen's committees could be formed.

Does Carmel need a new gas station?

by Jim Warne

The attention at the last City Planning Commission was focused around an application to build a service station at the south west corner of Junipero and 5th Streets, by Mobil Oil Corporation.

Francis Lloyd, attorney representing Mobil Oil, presented the application and explained the objectives of his client. Lloyd demonstrated that the applicant had met all of the required city ordinances.

Walter Birdy, architect, displayed to the commission a model of the proposed station. Birdy stated that all of the existing trees would remain but the present structures on the lots would be torn down, this would include the General Store.

The meeting was then opened to the public for appearances.

Jackson Smith an employee of the General Store presented a petition to the commission. The petition contained more than 600 signatures in opposition to the building of a service station.

Smith then expressed his opposition to the proposed application.

The General Store sells natural foods. The store is worthy of remaining because it is a valuable contribution to the Carmel community. The existing structures on the site in question are esthetically invaluable to the continuity of the community. There is no need for the construction of this station because the existing service stations serve the needs of the community adequatly.

Several other people of the community expressed their opposition. Many of the criticisms were repeated by the concerned citizens. What follows is a summary of the opposing arguments.

At the present time the corner of 5th Street and Junipero is a bottle neck. With the increased flow of traffic the street would have to be widened to accomodate the traffic. The trees that line 5th Street would be cut down with the widening of the street.

The function and purpose of the General Store was explained to the commission.

There is no other store of this kind in the community. The store and the existing structures are a resource and a valuable contribution to the style pattern in Carmel.

The General Store was not designed as a profit motive business, its purpose is to inform the people how to live a healthy life through the eating of uncontaminated food.

The residents of Carmel and the many people each year who come to Carmel are attracted by the natural beauty that is generated from the landscape and the forest that surrounds Carmel, another gas station would not add to the esthetic quality that Carmel enjoys.

The meeting was then closed to public appearances. The fate of the General Store and the surrounding structures will be decided on April 15, the planning commission will vote on this date.

Petition to retain Laiolo

Interested citizens of Carmel are circulating a petition urging the retention of Barney Laiolo as mayor for the next two years.

The petition requests the City Council to make the appointment when Laiolo's present term expires.

Anyone interested in signing the petition may call 624-6926 or 624-4501.

'Save the Sea Otter' group formed here

by Judith A. Eisner

A new group called the Emergency Committee to Save the Sea Otter has been formed in Carmel for the purpose of protecting this rare mammal.

According to a spokesman, the Committee's first efforts will be directed at defeating a bill introduced in the State Senate which endangers the sea otter.

The California sea otter is a fully protected animal. This status is the result of these animals having been hunted to near-extinction for their pelts during the early part of the century; they were rediscovered in 1938 and the present Sea Otter Refuge, a 100-mile-long coastal preserve stretching from the Carmel River south to Santa Rosa Creek was established in 1957. According to a 1969 census, there are 1,014 sea otters, more than one-third of which were found living north and south of the Refuge boundaries.

State Senator Donald L. Grunsky of Watsonville recently introduced Senate Bill 442 which 'provides that sea otters may be taken outside the California Sea Otter Refuge under a permit or by the Dept. of Fish and Game . . .'

This legislation is the result of complaints made by commercial abalone fishermen who accuse the sea otter of decimating abalone beds. Grunsky's bill further 'prohibits both sport and commercial taking of abalone from within the Refuge area.' According to the committee this is Grunsky's idea of a happy compromise: he hopes to leave the abalone within the Refuge to the Sea Otters, but to permit 'taking,' a euphemism for killing, of these animals outside the Refuge to satisfy the abalone fishermen.

The committee blames the fishermen's unwise methods of harvesting abalone for the decline in these marine snails which are highly prized as a gourmet food. He states that Monterey was once the center of the abalone industry until over-fishing forced the industry to move south to richer pickings in the Morro Bay area. 'The sea otter and the abalone managed to live for centuries in beautiful ecological balance until man interfered,' said a spokesman.

The Committee urges people interested in preserving the rare sea otter to act quickly as Senate hearings on this bill are scheduled for April 6. Write or wire Senator Grunsky, Assemblyman Bob Wood and Senator Roger Lagomarsino, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Water, Wildlife and Natural Resources to demand retraction of this bill. For further information, write the Emergency Committee to Save the Sea Otter, Box 3282, Carmel.

Wood opposes Sea Otter bill

In a telephone call to the Pine Cone on Monday, Assemblyman Bob Wood of Greenfield clarified his position on the controversial Bill 442 authored by Senator Donald L. Grunsky of Watsonville concerning the sea otter and abalone fisheries.

Wood's statement came in reply to a considerable number of inquiries from the Carmel area asking about his stand on the bill.

Wood said that he could not support the bill as it is presently written.

The bill as now written states that the Fish and Game Commission of the State of California can 'take' sea otters south of the southern limits of the refuge.

The word 'take' in current law could mean 'kill' and Wood is opposed to this wording.

He stated he had discussed his opposition to the bill with Senator Grunsky, and Grunsky told him that the word 'take' now in the bill was a drafting error and it was not his (Grunsky's) intent to allow the killing of any sea otters.

Senator Grunsky stated he intends to change the wording at the public hearing of the bill in Sacramento on April 6.

Wood said he personally approves wording such as 'translocate' or other wording that would protect and relocate the sea otter only.

He said that in addition, Grunsky sees no reason why the refuge cannot possibly be extended on the northern limits and Wood agrees with this recommendation, a change recommended by several conservation groups on the Monterey Peninsula.

Wood said he believed that both abalone and sea otters are important to the ecology of the coastal area, and he would be willing to support any bill that would protect the sea otter, abalone and the fishermen.

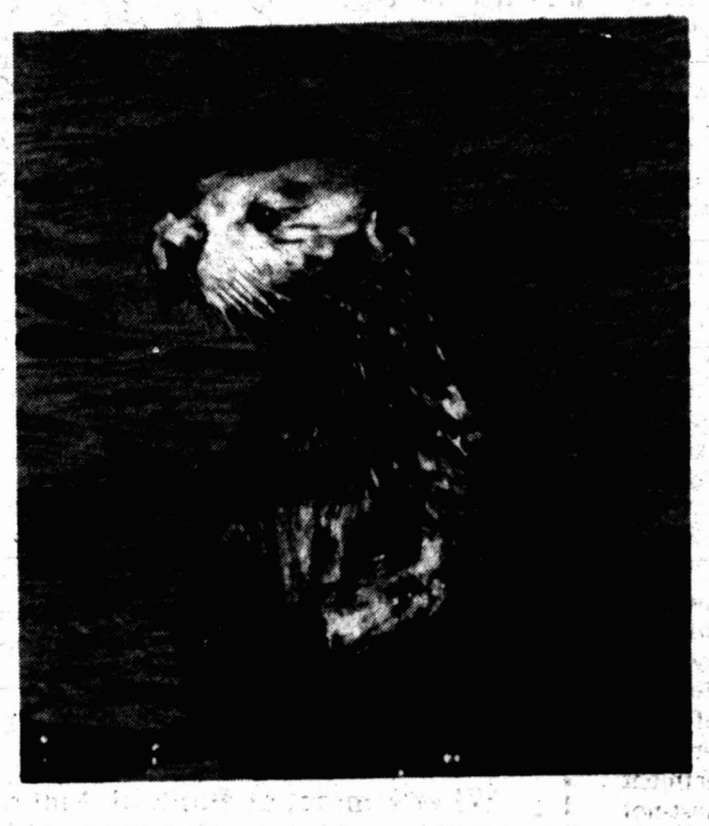
SAVE THE SEA OTTER!



There are only 1,000 California Sea Otters left! Once believed extinct, the return of these rare mammals has been assisted by the creation of the California Sea Otter Refuge. Sea Otters are fully protected by law the entire length of the California coast. More than one-third of the Otters live outside the Refuge boundaries!

Senator Donald L. Grunsky, attempting to appease the commercial abalone industry, has introduced Senate Bill 442 which would permit killing these animals outside their 100-mile long Refuge.

The abalone industry accuses the Sea Otter of depleting the abalone beds. The fact is that over-fishing due to fishermen's greed is responsible for the decline in abalone.

Help save the Sea Otter! Hearings are scheduled in the Senate for April 6. Wire Grunsky and Roger Lagomarsino in the Senate and Assemblyman Bob Wood NOW! It's column writing time again and "more next week" is here...this week has literally swept past me, leaving little time to linger over the haunting notes of Maestro Taueber's Monday evening rehearsal for the April 7 Concert; or the famous Whittenberg Choir from Ohio that filled our stage with vital youth and enthusiastic performance, a most inspiring event for all attending.

In one of those rare, "just looking" moments, I followed the parade of visitors past my window to Studio One, to take a second look at the 3-man show of Merg Ross, Edward Putzman, and Don Normark, at Friends of Photography Gallery, graciously hosted by Mrs. Dahle, receptionist for this outstanding exhibitor at Sunset. Each member has a distinct style and treatment of subject; a "must-not miss," on anyone's calendar. Daily, Tuesday through Sunday, 1 to 5 p.m.

Not to be forgotten, our ever versatile resident, at the far South, Studio 11, Richard Brace, continues to pleasantly surprise us with his unique concepts and inquisitive mind of the world about us; this week, quite unexpectedly, spread our fame of Sunset Center by means of our most popular medium, television in general, Scope 46 in particular.

An impromptu interview, he presented a synopsis of a special 15-minute animated cartoon on pollution, as part of the Teach-In on Pollution, as sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula College, the week of April 20th-24th. Noted artist Pat Carey, founder of Carmel Graphics, Studio 4 and Pat Saylor, cartoonist, will demonstrate this medium with Richard Brace moderating the animation.

Speaking of ecology and environment as affected by the industrial expansion of America, POLLUTION, by name, shares the theatre with our Performing Arts, to present AMPERE', a group vitally interested in preserving the natural beauty that inevitably lures each and every one of us to this special "way of life" that is the Monterey Peninsula. Guest speaker for this organization, director for the California Recreation and Parks Department, will spearhead a membership drive on April 8, Wednesday evening, 8 p.m. Plan to attend this most crucial meeting.

Another must on your schedule is April 11, when an outstanding program, "The Record Collector's Hour" will be presented for the first time by Dr. Irving Greenberg, former Doctor of Philosophy at the Columbia University, New York City. His special interest and avocation, music, especially qualifies Dr. Greenberg, a former musicologist and music critic for the New York Times. He is looking forward to sharing his great collection of classics with you and will initiate this program with J. Bach's Concerto No. 5 in D Major (London Edition — L'Oiseau Lyre — Thurston Dart conducting the Philomusica Orchestra of London) and Beethoven, L.: Piano Concerto No. 3 in C minor, Opus 37 (Angel Recording — Emil Giles, piano with the Orchestra de la Societe des Concerts dy Conservatoire). Don't forget, SATURDAY, APRIL 11th, 2-3 P.M.

President Millard Fillmore and his wife Abigail had installed the first kitchen range in the White House.

NECK AND NECK — Barry Moore, left, and Tom Pelton battle to the tape in the mile run and finish all alone in a recent track meet between Carmel High School and San Lorenzo Valley. Pelton finally won the race in 5:01 as Carmel won the meet.

Reception for Mrs. Carruth

Mrs. Connell K. Carruth will be honored at a Sunday afternoon reception to be held Apr. 19 from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the Garden Room of the Church of the Wayfarer.

Mrs. Carruth is leaving Wayfarer, where she has been an organist for the past 17½ years. She will return to the Bay Area where she lived for many years and where she was a member of the faculty of Mills College.

The reception is open to all in the church and community.

5¾% on our Investors Passbook account. No other California bank or savings and loan pays 5¾% on passbook deposits. That's the highest rate anywhere on passbooks.

What's more, at Bank of America you have three ways to earn high passbook interest. It all depends on how long you want to keep your funds invested. Let's take it from the top.

5¾% Investors Passbook.
Leave your money with us for two years and it will earn 5¾% annual interest. Compounded and paid quarterly. $500 minimum deposit. And you can add to it any time in amounts of $100 or more.

5½% Investors Passbook.
If a one-year maturity is about right for you, we'll pay you 5½% interest. The same $500 minimum applies, as well as the privilege of adding to your investment in amounts of $100 or more.

5% Investors Passbook.
This is our short term offer. 90 day maturity. And you earn 5% annual interest. Again, a $500 minimum opens an account. Add to it in amounts of $100 or more.

That's our new rate story. But you haven't heard the end of it. The security of the world's largest bank. It's always been the clincher for saving at Bank of America. We think you should make money minus worry. The business of living can have its enjoyable moments. Save with us.

New Zealand film tonight

The new Explorama film 'Discovering New Zealand,' will show at Sunset Auditorium tonight at 8:15, narrated by its producer, Kenneth Richter.

The two-hour color travel and adventure movie not only portrays present-day New Zealand but re-creates its history from the aboriginal Maoris and the Polynesian discoverers, through the Treaty of Waitangi, personal pact between Queen Victoria and the Maori chiefs, and the land's gold rush. Part of the proceeds of the showing provides annual scholarships to young California students through Explorama's scholarship program.

Garden Fair

Sumer is icumen in:
Lhude sing cuccu!
Groweth sed,
and bloweth med,
And springeth
the wude nu.
Sing cuccu!
Anonymous

The theme of this 13th century English song — the celebration of late spring — will be echoed in a more contemporary manner at the Second Annual Carmel Garden Fair on Saturday, May 2.

Plants, shrubs and blossoms (perhaps even a stray cuckoo) will be much in evidence at the Fair, which will run from 10 to 5 at the La Playa Hotel in Carmel.

Visitors will be able to see a number of displays and gardening demonstrations, and will also be able to enjoy a liesurely lunch poolside at the La Playa.

There is no admission fee. All proceeds from sales or donations will go to the All Saints' Episcopal Day School Scholarship Fund.

Skiing holiday

"Gypsy Skiers," of the Carmel Ski Club have returned from their yearly weekend bus trip to Squaw Valley and Alpine Meadows.

They spent the weekend skiing and ice skating and stopped at Cal-Neva for a buffet luncheon before heading home.

Chairman of the trip was Carrol Wilde, a new member of the club this year. He was assisted by Mrs. Hanne Wangoe.

The Carmel Ski Club plans to build a lodge outside of Truckee, Nev. and give up their title of "gypsies."

Adobe Tour has new attractions this year

The 1970 Adobe Tour, "Scenes of Old Monterey," to be held Saturday, Apr. 25, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. by the Monterey History and Art Association, will be the twenty-third presentation of the City's treasured historic adobes.

While observing traditions of past tours, the Tour Committee will add new elements this year to celebrate Monterey's 200th birthday.

Two outdoor scenes will be created, one evoking a picture of our early Spanish and Mexican days, the other set in the American period of the later 1800's. The two scenes will serve as focal points for touring nearby adobes.

Visitors will be free to wander through the scenes; indeed, they are urged to join the festivities, wear costumes, sample the tacos, sing along with the musicians, enjoy the al fresco luncheon in the Memory Garden, and become a part of the romance and history of the past.

At the Custom House Plaza, costumed "plaza players" will stroll about talking, singing, shouting, arguing, as they meet to transact business, gossip, and visit. At a decorated booth, paisanos will sell tacos. A Wells Fargo Stagecoach, loaned by Wells Fargo Bank, will be drawn up on one of the Plaza lanes.

Over at El Puesto, the merchandise booth, mementos of the tour will be on sale — postcards, booklets, posters, and color slides of buildings on the tour. And mingling with the noise of the Plaza and the sound of water splashing in the Plaza fountain, will be the music of guitars and other instruments of the Mariachi band musicians, entertaining the crowd in their dashing charro dress.

In contrast to the boisterous life of the Plaza, a decorous street scene will form the center of interest for another group of adobes. The Dutra-King-Pierce Street loop, a remnant of the old town, will be closed off to become a scene reminiscent of the last half of the 19th century.

Visitors entering this area will see ladies in period dress promenading slowly by; children rolling hoops and playing tag, hopscotch, and other games of the day; a horse and carriage waiting by one of the houses; a fond mother wheeling her baby in an antique buggy.

On the balcony of the Vasquez Adobe, where old quilts are airing on the railing, Senorita Vasquez will be portrayed knitting, while she surveys the scene below and keeps an eye on the old jail across the street, from which her brother, Tiburcio, is said to have escaped more than once.

From this nostalgic setting, visitors will leave to tour six more historic buildings which will include Old Monterey Jail; Casa de la Torrre, the picturesque adobe residence at Jefferson and Pierce; The Larkin House, a prototype of the famous "Monterey-style" of architecture and Stevenson House, where the frail, poverty-stricken Robert Louis Stevenson will be portrayed, busy with his writing.

Under CARE "food plus" programs, hungry people also get the tools and knowledge to work, earn and plan for themselves

Hottelet to address Town Hall

Richard C. Hottelet, United Nations correspondent for CBS television since 1960, will conclude the Town Hall lecture series sponsored by the Auxiliary of the Monterey Institute for Speech and Hearing.

The last lecture will be April 6 at 10:00 A.M. at the Cinema 70 Theater in Del Monte Center. Tickets will be available at the door for $3.00.

Hottelet, who has been on the scene of all major events at the UN during the past decade, has also covered stories in Europe, the Middle East, Southeast Asia and Latin America.

Hottelet's too outspoken reporting resulted in his arrest by the Third Reich in 1941 on a trumped up espionage charge. He was held four months in solitary confinement before being exchanged for a Nazi newsman and starting work for the Office of War Information in London, Africa and Italy.

The young reporter joined CBS in 1944 and emerged from a Ninth Air Force bomber with the first report of the sea-born invasion in Normandy. Hottelet was later on the scene for the Battle of the Bulge and crossed the Rhine with the Allies. He once had to parachute to safety when his plane was struck by enemy flak.

Hottelet has also covered major news stories in the Belgian Congo, reported on the Geneva conferences and served as CBS' correspondent in Bonn, Germany.

Council to Hear Arts Discussion

"The Necessity of the Arts" will be discussed at the annual meeting of the Monterey County Arts Coordinating Council.

Speakers will be Robert Nelson, chairman of the Performing Arts Department at MPC and Morgan Stock, head of the Drama Department. The program will follow a brief business meeting and report on Council progress.

Reservations for the noon luncheon, which will be held Apr. 8 at the La Playa Hotel, may be made by phoning Mrs. E. H. Melvin, 624-5560 on or before Apr. 6.

Wester donates car to school

Students in automotive training at Carmel High School will have the opportunity to study the operation of a modern air-cooled engine through a donation sponsored by Wester Volkswagen of Seaside.

Don and Jim Wester, owners of the VW dealership in the new Peninsula Auto Center, presented the engine and special Volkswagen tools to Principal Art Gumbell at a ceremony Tuesday.

Also taking part from the school were James Agen, Industrial Arts Department; Tom Wood, Vocational Guidance Counselor and Lowell Battcher, Automotive Instructor.

MR. AND MRS. STEVEN BLAND GABRIELSON

Thomas-Gabrielson nuptials

Hawaii was the setting for the marriage of Diana Mae Thomas and Steven Bland Gabrielson. The couple were wed Mar. 5 at the First Presbyterian Church in Honolulu. The Rev. Larry Jones officiated at the 6:30 p.m. ceremony.

Diane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lyon of Carmel. She attended Carmel schools and in 1969 she received her B.A. from Fresno State College where she was a member of the American Home Economics Association.

For her wedding, Diane wore a white lace, street length dress with bell sleeves and a scooped neckline. She carried a large white cymbidium orchid surrounded by smaller orchids. Her white garden hat was hung with ribbon streamers.

The bride was attended by Mrs. John Sorensen of Fresno and Miss Kathy Wachter of Honolulu. Best man was John Sorensen of Fresno.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harper Gabrielson of Fresno. He attended Sanger High School and Fresno State College where he was affiliated with Kappa Sigma Fraternity and the American Society of Viticulture and Enology.

The couple honeymooned in Honolulu and on Mar. 22 they attended a reception at the Carmel home of the bride's parents.

The Gabrielsons will make their home in Sonoma where Steven is assistant foreman of the Buena Vista Vineyards.

The Carmel Bach Festival requires year-round effort

The Carmel Bach Festival, beginning July 17 and continuing through July 26, requires the talents and efforts of many people throughout the year.

Each has his or her personal business life, but much time and thought is constantly given to planning for the success of the 10 days of recitals and concerts which have for the past 32 years attracted international musical attention.

At the present time, soloists and members of the orchestra and chorale write of their enthusiastic anticipation with major orchestras and opera companies throughout thie country. Since early last month, Kenneth Ahrens, organist and Festival chorus director, has been conducting weekly chorus rehearsals.

Sando Salgo, conductor and musical director of the Festival, is music director of the Stanford Opera Theatre and Symphony Orchestra, the Marin Symphony Orchestra and the "Music at the Vineyards" series at Saratoga.

He recently conducted performances of Poulenc's "Dialogues of the Carmelites" at the Stanford Opera Theatre and the San Francisco "Chronicle" reported that, "The major musical prize went to conductor Sandor Salgo. His fine student orchestra reproduced the miniaturism of Poulenc's score with crystal clarity."

Ralph Linsley, one of this country's most distinguished accompanists and general coordinator and harpsichordist for the Festival, has had a demanding schedule traveling as accompanist for Metropolitan Opera sopranos Dorothy Kirsten and Mildred Miller, Metropolitan Opera tenor, Barry Morell and baritone Ralph Griffin and cellist Gilbert Reese.

Linsley devotes much of his attention during the year to Festival planning and is responsible for much of the Festival program contents.

The 21 members of the Festival Board of Directors are also involved most of the year and their faithful attendance at meetings and their contributions of time and energy are evidence of their dedication to the success of the outstanding programs. The Festival office in the Sunset Cultural Center is the scene of accelerated activity at this time of year. Brochures announcing the programs in detail are being readied for mailing, requests for season tickets from last year's subscribers are being processed, new residents of the Monterey Peninsula visit the office to learn more about the Festival operation and the telephone rings constantly!

Piano recital

Pianist Mary Lee Shepard of Atherton and Carmel, will offer an evening piano recital Apr. 22 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Adams in Carmel Highlands.

The program will benefit the French Scholarship Fund of the Alliance Francaise.

School board

Board reviewed a proposal to establish priorities for attendance at Carmelo School beginning in the 1970-1971 school year.

The residents of Carmel Knolls and Rancho Rio Vista formerly had a choice between attending Carmelo or River School, but the attendance at Carmelo School this year has exceeded its projected amount. Although the present enrollment is under the California school system limit, the teacher-pupil ratio at Carmelo is the highest of any elementary school in the District.

'It is primarily in the kindergarten area that we have some concerns,' Taylor said. He reported that there were too many students for one kindergarten session and too few for two sessions. He felt the only way to solve the problem was to establish a priority system. People new to the area would be directed to River School.

Board president, Hilton Bialek, was opposed to setting up boundaries because some parents prefer one school to the other and there is not too much difficulty in sending a student either way.

The Board took no action at last week's meeting. They plan to take a head count to see how many of the students from Carmel Knolls are attending Carmelo School and then submit their findings at an upcoming meeting.

The Board also voted to reject all bids that were submitted Mar. 17 for a new school bus and to readvertise for bus bids if a negotiated purchase is not possible. The Board felt that the only bid received, which was for $13,616.75 plus sales tax, was too high. Since the Administration feels that a suitable bus can be obtained for under $9,000, they recommended that all bids be rejected.

The Administration will present an oral report on what caused the high bid, and suggest plans to obtain a satisfactory bid.

The board also accepted a proposed form for filing a statement of financial interests accompanied by a memorandum from Paul R. De Lay, Deputy County Counsel. The form designated that only board members and superintendents must file a disclosure of financial interests before Apr. 15 and it is not up to the School District to designate any other persons to declare their financial holdings.

Carmel author writes on Calif. history

FRIEND AND FOSSIL — Randall A. Reinstedt inspects the remains of a mosasaur, a prehistoric marine lizard 60-80 million years old. The fossil was found by Don Howard of Pacific Grove and is one of four that have been discovered in California. Randall Reinstedt is the author of the book, Dinosaur Dan, which has been accepted for publication by Ginn and Company.

Randall A. Reinstedt, a fourth grade teacher at Patton Elementary School in Fort Ord, is a writer as well as an educator. He has written several articles on California history including "The Lost Treasures of the Monterey Peninsula," "The Curse of the Sanchez Treasure," and "Secret Coves and Lost Worlds," an account of the Big Sur area.

Reinstedt's articles have been purchased for publication by Western Publications, Co., and his first book, Dinosaur Dan, which started as a short story, was chosen by Ginn and Company to be expanded into a book for use at the third grade level in their Magic Circle book program.

Randall Reinstedt also co-produced the film "Father Sky and Mother Earth," which deals with the local Coastonoan Indians and their burial rites. The film was made by Bob Blaisdell of Black Lion Productions, Ltd.

Randall researches his local articles by interviewing old timers in the area. They like to talk and Randall is a willing listener. For research of historical facts. he uses the California room at the Monterey Public Library.

During the summer months, Randall works as a tour guide. He has taken groups around the world and he reports that his visits to the Orient, Caribbean, Hawaii and Europe have been most helpful in giving him ideas for new articles.

Cancer crusade this month

April has been named "Cancer Control Month" by the President of the United States. During this same period the American Cancer Society, largest private source of funds for cancer research in the nation, conducts a combined educational and fund-raising Crusade.

Charles Lunt, Jr., Monterey Peninsula Crusade chairman, says that there is special urgency in the Crusade's appeal this year due to withdrawal of funds for cancer research at the federal level which must be compensated for by support from the private sector if the search for a cancer cure is to continue at its present level.

"Funds for the tax-supported National Cancer Institute are inadequate because of government budgeting restrictions," Mr. Lunt. "It will be difficult for private organizations to take up the slack, but we're going to try."

Here are the volunteers who are working on the Crusade in Carmel under the leadership of Mrs. John Zach:

Mrs. Helen Canavarro, Mrs. Betty Carr, Mrs. Marion Chomiak, Mrs. Timothy Hobson, Mrs. William Hubbard, Mrs. Raymond McDonough, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stanley. Working with Carmel business people will be Mrs. La Vonne Altman, Suzanne Barnett, Gasper Cardinale, Mrs. Harold Davis, Stanley Ewig and Gordon Robertson.

She was graduated from Carmel High School and received her B.A. degree in art from Sacramento State College.

Unique art display

One hundred years and four generations separate the two California artists whose works will be shown at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art during the month of April.

Honoring Montery's Bi-centennial, this exhibit was designed to pay homage to Californa's artists and craftsmen and to stimulate the viewer throught the contrast of media, style, and eras represented.

Thaddeus Welch (1844-1919) is one of California's best-known early painters whose work is found in all collections representing Californiana. This exhibit is comprised of works borrowed from the permanent collection of the Oakland Museum and the Welch-Pilat family collection. Also included will be a few pieces by Welch's wife, Ludmilla, herself a painter of note.

Peter Pilat (1939-), Welch's great-grand nephew, chose the three dimensional approach and is a ceremist and glassblower. He graduated from U.C.-Santa Barbara and took his Master's at San Jose State where he later taught. He will teach at Hartnell College this summer after moving to Carmel Valley where he will establish his studio and workshop.

This unique two-man show will be hung in the Museum's Main Gallery from April 2-30. In the Balcony Gallery, the Graphic Show from the Museum's Permanent Collection will continue through April. The Hall and Office Galeries feature a selection of works from the City of Monterey collection, including canvasses by George Innes, Armin Hansen, William Ritschel and Charles Rollo Peters.

The Museum is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, and closed Mondays and holidays. The Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art is located at 559 Pacific Street, Monterey.

Dining Out at....Sans Souci

....with Viriy Shepley

This past week's gastronomical tour took place at Carmel's Sans Souci. Between 5th & 6th on Lincoln, this truly French restaurant serves luncheon from 11:30 to 2:00 and dinner from 6:00 to 9:30.

As one enters the elegant dining rooms, one senses that this is indeed one of the luxury places in our town. The spacious lower level room with crystal chandelier, glowing fireplace and most correctly appointed table settings, is the utmost in chic surroundings. Nothing garish but everything in order for delicious food.

Twelve members of l'Alliance Francaise de la Peninsule de Monterey dined in this Parisian atmosphere expecting superior cuisine. And we received what we wanted.

There is a very wide choice, but even so, "Sans Souci will be happy to prepare your favorite Gourmet Specialties on 24 hours notice" it says on the parchment menu. Entrees include a delicate cream soup, salad with the most exquisite dressing (no wonder the chef keeps his invention a secret), Dauphine potatoes, fresh vegetable, their own baked bread, sweet butter pats and excellent coffee.

Hors d'oeuvres, such as marinated artichoke hearts (or fonds, meaning bottoms) and escargots, meaning snails, are extra. However, we were served celery, olives, salami, potato salad, pickled tiny tomatoes and peppers, with crackers, while musing over what to select.

"Poulet de la Maison" (Chicken of the House) was the most popular choice. Your reporter hoped for several selections, but the French know their dishes and all those who wanted this specialty enjoyed it with exclamations of approval. It always sounds so much more enthusiastic in French. This poulet was a "succulent young chicken, ringed with pineapple, button mushrooms and champagne sauce." My dinner partner said he hadn't noticed the pineapple, which didn't seem very French anyway, but there was a large button mushroom and the sauce must have had champagne only he couldn't tell the difference between white wine and champagne . . in a sauce."

That's the trouble with Americans, they should make more sauces with champagne. Unanimously among the French members it was "superb."

Your guide for "Dining Out" chose "Filet of Sole Bonne Femme" which was poached in white wine and mushrooms. There was no question between champagne and white wine. It tasted divine.

"Tournedos Sans Souci" are small beef filets set in a pastry shell, topped with California artichoke hearts and sauce Valois. That is $5.75 per person.

"Tournedos Rossini" are filets mignon with genuine foie gras and truffles. As far as I know, none of us chose these choice morsels. There is a "Rack of Lamb" for two persons; "Chateaubriand Bouquetiere" for two, carved and served at your table.

Sorry we can't deliver recipes today excepting that the chef is known to make the most delicate crepes this side of Paris. Crabmeat wrapped in these ethereal pancakes are called Crepes Carleton. Sans Souci means "Carefree".

'Three Bags Full' Coming to Circle

"Three Bags Full," Jerome Chodorov's uproarious farce comedy based on the play by Claude Magnier, will bring unconventional fun to the Circle Theatre in Carmel when it opens April 10 for a six week run. This sixth attraction of the 1970 Community Theatre season is under the direction of Michael Keller.

Set in New York in the early 1900's, the plot of "Three Bags Full" is pegged for some hilarious lunatic humor. It revolves around three bags — one containing diamonds, the second filled with money, and the third stuffed with the maid's bloomers.

Gower Champion directed the Broadway version, which starred Paul Ford in the role of Bascom Barlow, a greedy merchant who finds himself in some very funny situations, when the skeletons in the closets of his Madison Avenue home begin to rattle with laughter.

Angela, his daughter, has turned into a militant Fabian after reading Shaw's "Man and Superman," and will not allow Barlow to play her matchmaker. She refuses to be married because of what she calls her father's absurd middle-class morality, even though she is pregnant and has booked passage on the Coronia to have her baby in Paris.

Mistaken identities abound, and in the tradition of French farce we have Kathleen, the downstairs maid; Boris, the chauffeur; Jeanette, the little waif caught in a web of comic deceit; Genevieve the unsuspecting wife; and of course, the second maid.

After its opening on April 10, "Three Bags Full" will play Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m., and Sundays at 7:30 p.m.

Reservations and group discount bookings for all performances are now being accepted at the box office at 624-2669.

Kent Seavey resigns as Beethoven Festival chairman

Dear Committee Member: Due to recent developments concerning specifically the Beethoven Festival that had been scheduled for October 17, 1970, at the Carmel Mission, and is now undergoing reappraisal by the current Board of Directors of the Old Monterey Bicentennial, I have found it necessary to tender my resignation as the Committee Chairman.

It has been my sincere pleasure working with each and every one of you over the last few months. Our programs have excellent potential and I would hope, barring any further changes of administration in the O.M.B., someone still might carry them to fruition.

Your enthusiasm and cogent advice during our association has been much appreciated. I will not embarrass you; I will not be embarrassed myself by continued confrontations with the O.M.B. I have always gone under the notion, perhaps naively, that a man is as good as his word and if a man is in a position of responsibility and authority, I consider that word the word of the organization he represents. This, unfortunately, has not been the case with O.M.B. and therefore I feel personally responsible for perhaps misrepresenting Maestro Taeuber and his excellent idea for the Beethoven Festival.

As I stated above, I hope that both this and our theater production might continue and I hope that one of you might be willing to carry the ball, or might suggest someone a little less trusting than I, perhaps, to continue operations with the O.M.B.

Again my regrets over having to take this action and my personal appreciation for the services you have rendered.

Kindest regards,
Kent L. Seavey,

(Note: The Pine Cone has been serving on the Carmel Committee of the Old Monterey Bicentennial. We have carried publicity on the scheduled Beethoven Festival to be held in October at the Carmel Mission, assuming that because of the committments of prior O.M.B. Board members, the concert would be held. Maestro Taeuber has already selected the program, contacted soloists and altogether, devoted a massive amount of time and effort to the Beethoven Festival.

Taeuber's justifiable consternation at being informed that the Festival was undergoing reappraisal and might not be supported by O.M.B. would indicate that with each change in the board of directors of the organization, all previous bets are off and the whole thing starts over from scratch.

The Pine Cone deeply regrets Kent Seavey's resignation, since his sincere and dedicated efforts for Carmel's participation in the O.M.B. celebration resignation, since his sincere and dedicated efforts in behalf of Carmel's participation in the Bicentennial celebration will have been in vain.)

HAROLD GOULD, as the crafty district attorney, questions Kathleen Crowley during trial scene in "The Lawyer", now showing at the Golden Bough In Carmel.

'Any Wednesday' opens Friday

The executive suite hanky-panky of "Any Wednesday," opening Friday at the Studio Theatre-Restaurant, is in the hands of four actors of considerable experience.

As Ellen the tax-deductible mistress, Brit Lind draws on a background of many roles at the University of Washington and the Meridian Little Theatre. She has just been seen as Marie-Whatever-Her-Name-Was in "The Seven Year Itch."

David Hughes as John, the business tycoon, continues an acting avocation that began with the University Drama Society at Stanford. His stage roles have ranged from Greek classical plays and Shakespeare to Uncle Vanya and Lord Jim. During a career in merchandising, he was commentator for the Neiman Marcus fashion awards and has done many radio shows.

Rod Allison plays Cass whose foray into the executive suite starts the comic complications. A local favorite, Allison has appeared in "The Fantasticks," "The Roar Of The Greasepaint," "Ernest In Love," "Born Yesterday" and "Black Comedy."

As Dorothy, the deceived wife who chances upon Ellen and Cass together and jumps to the wrong conclusion, Joyce Crawford makes use of previous experience with the Black Hills Playhouse, the Melodrama Theatre of Virginia City and community theatre in Southern California. Her acting credits include "Talk Of The Town," "Papa Is All," "Gaslight" and many others.

Under the direction of Bill Asp, "Any Wednesday" will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at the Studio through May 9.

BY JUDITH EISNER

During the Middle Ages, the word "plague" paralyzed people with fear; mention of typhoid fever had the same result in this country during the early part of this century. Today, the word "rabies" has the ability to create in otherwise rational folk an irrational panic.

Bubonic plague and typhoid are killer diseases that easily assume epidemic proportions. Today, thanks to immunization and vastly improved sanitation methods, both diseases exist more in memory than as actual problems, although cases of both do occur. But rabies, though it has certainly taken its toll of men, is a disease of animals and, cleared of its numerous myths, can be seen as a very slight threat to man.

Although Monterey County is an area in which rabies occurs, it should be reassuring to learn that there were only three verified cases of the disease in the county in 1969. All three cases occurred in skunks. According to Dr. Caswell, County Health Department Veterinarian, there has not been a case of rabies in a dog or cat in more than 12 years!

All warm-blooded animals can spread rabies. The majority of animal rabies cases are found in wildlife, primarily in skunks, bats and foxes. Among domestic pets, dogs and cats are the most commonly infected animals, but the availability of an effective vaccine, plus a state law calling for vaccination of all dogs over four months of age, has taken away a good deal of the risk.

Twelve years is a long time. It represents a ripe old age for a dog. And in all that time, no dogs or cats have been found to be infected with rabies in this county; no one has been bitten by a rabid dog or cat. Yet whenever a dog salivates heavily, from whatever the cause, there is someone nearby to cry, "Watch out! He might have rabies!"

A dog does most of his perspiring through his tongue. When a dog works or plays hard or runs for long distances, his body seeks to cool itself through perspiration, just as do our own. Consequently, he "drools" excessively. This drooling may appear as froth or foam. A horse ridden hard will collect the same foam over his mouth and bit. This is no indication of illness, rabies or otherwise, in an apparently healthy dog.

Sadly, dogs and cats frequently go into convulsions. Convulsions or "fits" are not a disease; rather, theyare the symptoms of a number of diseases, just as they are in humans. Even in epilepsy, which is a chronic illness affecting both man and dog, the convulsion is a symptom or a result of the illness.

Anyone — dog, cat, human — in the throes of a convulsion is a frightening sight. In most cases, foaming at the mouth occurs. Again, this does not indicate rabies. Thousands of friendly, healthy dogs suffer fits each summer as a result of heat prostration — caused, incidentally, through human neglect. These poor dogs need first aid quickly, not a crowd of terrified onlookers crying, "Rabies!"

Rabies is caused by a virus that attacks the central nervous system. It is transmitted only through the bite of an infected animal. The disease is never airborne or contracted in any other way. The wound resulting from such a bite becomes infected with the virus found in the saliva of the animal.

There are two types of rabies — "dumb" and "furious." Only in the furious variety does an animal bite. Symptoms begin with a change in personality. Friendly animals may act withdrawn; shy animals may act overly friendly. This stage lasts about two days. After this, the animal, if it is a dog, may wander from home and go "mad." It will bite anything in its path; at this time it may infect other animals or people, and during this stage the animal appears to froth at the mouth.

Once the "mad" period is over, the animal seeks a secluded spot to suffer his final convulsions, lapse into paralysis and die.

"Dumb" rabies has no roving or mad period. Paralysis, usually of the lower jaw, is the first symptom. Death occurs shortly. An animal with dumb rabies cannot bite because he cannot move his jaw; infection can only occur if a person with an open wound or sore on his hand comes in contact with the animal's saliva.

The chances are you have never seen a rabid animal; chances are great you never will. And while we recommend that care be taken in handling any sick animal, we feel that the blind fear so many people feel is unfounded.

Dogs and cats do bite, and such wound should be cleansed thoroughly with soap and warm water. You should contact your physician and report the incident; the animal should be confined and observed. But you should not panic. If everyone obeys the law and vaccinates his pets against rabies, the odds are good that we will go another twelve years and longer without finding rabies in our domestic pets.

SOCIAL SECURITY AND YOU

by Raymond MacDonald

Q. My husband says he will soon be hiring an employee and wants to know what the procedure is to report wages for Social Security purposes.

A. The Internal Revenue Service receives the quarterly reports of employee wages and the Social Security taxes due on those wages. A new business must apply to the Internal Revenue Service for an employer identification number to use in making their reports. Application forms are available at Internal Revenue Service offices and Social Security offices.

Q. I got a letter this morning from California Blue Shield saying my Medicare claim had been sent to the Travelers Insurance Company to be processed and to send all future claims and correspondence to them. I am confused. I filed my 1490 form like all my friends did and I was the only one to receive a letter like this.

A. Undoubtedly you are a railroad retiree or the spouse of a railroad man and your friends are not. California Blue Shield is advised of this when your eligibility is verified with the Social Security Administration. Since Travelers is the designated carrier to process all Railroad Retirement claims in California, you would submit your 1490 and bills to their nearest office. Check your phone book for that information or contact one of their two main offices in California. In Northern California write to The Travelers Insurance Company, 550 California Street, San Francisco. In Southern California their address is 3600 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles. (Mail your questions to Social Security, c/o the Carmel Pine Cone, Carmel or phone Social Security office 373-3351)

Poetry Corner

This week's poetry corner featurs Mary Ann Putnam who has contributed numerous poems to the Pine Cone. She has published all over the U.S. and her work has appeared in many noted publications including the Christian Science Monitor, The Denver Post and The New York Herald Tribune.

Miss Putnam grew up in the seaport "city of sawmills", Everett, Wash., until she was 12 when her family moved to Seattle.

In high school she starred in ballet presentations and won essay contests. She was also active in drama and studied directing and radio writing.

Miss Putnam now tends a terraced garden she fondly calls the Black Forest. She wallpapers, paints, collects figurines and sometimes types 23 letters at one time.

She hopes to own a home in Carmel one day and also to jet around the world discovering its wonders and writing books.

NOCTURNAL

Sunsets blazing as the day
Puts her golden lamps away.
On a rough bench all alone
Beneath statues, carved in stone
A man sits feeding pigeons there
In daily ritual, like a Prayer.
It seems his old eyes look into Life negatives no longer new.
His face etched in lines of pain
From lifetime's losses; lifetime's gain,
To this little City Park
Come signs of beginning dark.
Autumn draws handpainted art
As maple leaves with floating grace
Move toward a resting place.
Falling drops of rain begin
Touching his face and his thin
Work gnarled hands reach for his cane.
How pure the promises of rain
Earth turns its axis on its rim
Tears of God are touching him.

THE FOREST'S GROVE

We drove the dusty highway
Leaving the postcard town
All the hills were towering green
Where one clear stream splashed down.

Over the lanes in August
The tall cool forest called
As a friend we'd known in childhood
Where a river waterfalled.

A chipmunk ran to meet us
And a doe we had seen before
Nibbled at the edge of the woods
Where the forest opened her door.

WIND SPRITE

The summer wind is traveling
Up green hills and down.
The summer wind is fanning flames
Where trees are seared and brown.
Where flowered prickly cactus grows
In dust too dry to green a rose.
A hot, tan wind is choking breath
On dusty deserts where
A cowboy begs for flashing rain
In a sunset Prayer.
In canyons gorge, so vast, so brown
The summer wind is sweeping down
Whispering forgotten tales
Of miner's ghosts, abandoned jails.
As the train winds up the rim
I hear the wind call, echoing dim
To high snow capped peaks stretching out
Where every echo seems to shout
She wanders weaving out and in
Near lakes where air seems window thin
Where cloud waterfalls go splashing far
She glides an Angel to a star.

Identity cards for non-drivers offered by DMV

California citizens have their choice of two-wallet documents to display when they need to prove who they are: either a driver's license if they drive, or an identification card if they don't.

Both are obtainable through local offices of the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

The Department of Motor Vehicles has issued identification cards to 45,000 Californians since DMV inaugurated this service to non-drivers in January 1969.

The California legislature lowered the age limit for ID card holders from 21 to 18 last year, and these younger persons have been eligible to apply for ID cards since the beginning of 1970.

"But there hasn't been a significant clamor for these cards by teen-agers," said Keith Ball, Chief of DMV'S division of Drivers Licenses.

DMV Director Robert Cozens added that four out of five ID card requests come from women and 50 percent of these are in the 18 to 25 age bracket. Only 14 percent of all ID card holders are in the 60 or older non-driver bracket.

For further information about these non-driver identification cards, contact the local Department of Motor Vehicles in Monterey.

Carmel brothers honored

Two Carmel brothers, Nathaniel P. and Thomas G. Greene, were honored recently when the University of Southern California hosted a dinner party marking the 100th anniversary of their uncle Henry Mather Greene, who with their father, Charles Sumner Greene, pioneered a new American architecture characterized as the "California Bungalow."

The anniversary was marked at Gamble House, famed Greene-and-Greene designed residence, now an architectural museum and research library owned and operated by the city of Pasadena.

Pasadena Mayor C. Bernard Cooper stated at the dinner: "The young and creative nature of this architect and his brother, Charles Sumner Greene, and their break with tradition made Pasadena the focus of a new and native American architecture in the West."

In addition to Henry's children and grandchildren, also present for the occasion were Robert F. Gordon, Pasadena Chapter President of the American Institute of Architects; Dr. Robert W. Winter, President Southern California Chapter, Society of Architectural Historian; Dean Sam Hurst, of the School of Architecture at USC; and others.

Letters To The Editor

Box 364
Monterey, California 93940
March 10, 1970

Editor, Carmel Pine Cone:

Going slightly beyond the idea that pollution may be desirable because it may make us too sick to destroy ourselves, perhaps we should question our true motives for doing anything at all about pollution.

Are we really interested in preserving life species and natural beauty on earth, or are we concerned mainly about side effects that might adversely affect the human species, the cause of all the trouble?

If we have a beautiful garden threatened with a week that may destroy everything else in the garden, or a tankful of fish that is being destroyed by a fungus or a cannibal species, it would behoove us to remove the threats.

Home sapiens, nature's misfit in an otherwide beautiful balance, is just one of millions of life species on earth, yet he is the only destroyer, and even though he may be understandably unwilling to remove himself from the scene, it may well be within the overall scheme of things that somehow this undesirable element may be removed.

A true conservationist then, recognizing that present compromising efforts may merely prolong man's stay and destruction on earth, could perhaps see nuclear proliferation and CBW capabilities as a hope, rather than a threat.

When we wave the flag in favor of conservation, it could be interesting to research our motives, and if we are lacking in sincerity or true goals, or are willing to compromise our efforts to really "follow through," then we must never think unkindly of the cannibal fish in the tank or the destructive weed in the garden.

Lewis, Chairman
Carmel Sanitary
District
Carmel, Calif.

Dear Mr. Lewis:

With the rejection by the voters of the Carmel Sanitary District bonds, it would seem appropriate to re-examine all aspects of the bond issue and the proceedings of the Board about which we believe that the public feels it has not been adequately informed.

We call upon the Board to join with us at a public meeting with all members of the Board and the Kennedy engineers present in order to allow the public to examine all aspects of the Sanitary District's problems. We suggest that such a meeting be chaired by a person mutually agreeable and held at a place large enough to hold the public.

Surely, with all elements of the community in full possession of the facts, we can move forward to find satisfactory solutions to these pressing problems that concern all of us who live in the Carmel Sanitary District and who are anxious to save our bay.

We look forward to a favorable reply and pledge the support of our organization in finding a workable solution.

IT'S WILDFLOWER month in Carmel Valley, and along with the beautiful sunshine it's Keeping Room Gourmet Garden Time, too. What more pleasant way to start the day than relaxing under our Happy Tree with a marvelous cup of Salvador coffee, thick orange juice and CowBoy Scrambled Eggs . . . unless it's with fragrant Baked Apple Dumpling or hot home-baked Spice Bread.

For picnic lunches, call ahead, 659-2512, and Dru will make a picnic lunch to take along on a wildflower trip up the Carmel Valley Road to the back country!

New on the noon luncheon is our fancy fruit salad boasting berries and cherries and molded cottage cheese flavored with orange. So beautiful to behold it's bound to be fattening . . . but isn't. Positively marvy Pot au Feu and light tender Quiche Lorraine. All at 6 Pilot Road, Carmel Valley Village, from 9 to 4 every day but Monday.

ACQUIRE YOUR RETIREMENT HOME NOW and lease it until you are ready to retire. If a two-bedroom, one-bath contemporary home suits your requirement, we have one up on the East side of Santa Rita (3rd South of 2nd Ave.) with an excellent assumable loan. Of course the interest will be raised but the lending institution will lengthen the amortization schedule so that the principal and interest payment of $142 per month will remain the same. Try to rent a two-bedroom, one-bath home for that in Carmel. The acquisition fee is $27,500. Try to top that in Carmel. Do not bother the occupants – they are excellent month-to- month tenants.

OCEAN FRONT SITES WITH WATER AVAILABLE ARE INDEED RARE. We have 2.9 acres right on the ocean with underground utilities including water for $51,000. The owner will assist you with the financing at 8% per annum on a negotiable amortization schedule. This is truly appreciation property whether you "sit on it" or build right now. Present owner has elected to build at Clear Lake.

A WARM FAMILY WORLD

This is the home for a family which really takes pride in a home, and especially for the woman who finds caring beautifully and graciously for her family and friends to be a supreme satisfaction in her life. It is so attractive, even as you drive up in the sunny Hatton Fields area – a used brick and stucco home with shake roof set in a green lawn.

Guests will walk up the brick path to the covered areaway and enter a spacious entry where the lovely silk turquoise wall coverings and the lush ivory carpet set a warm, friendly and restful color scheme for the whole house. The hospitable living room has beam ceiling, floor-to-ceiling bookcases, marble fireplace with polished mantle – and through the two window walls, so handsomely draped, the spacious brick patio with the fabulous old oaks and beautiful low-care plantings can be seen.

A center hall leads to the stunning master bedroom with its delightfully papered walls and matching draperies which curtain a window-wall with access to another part of the bricked patio. Extensive closets and built-ins. The bath, white tiled, has a glass-enclosed tub and a dozen interesting decorator touches. Also in this wing is a very large second bedroom (or study) (or both) and another beautifully tiled and papered bath with shower. The third bedroom is off the family room and has corner beds, rose-beige carpeting, and its bath has a deep tiled tub-shower with glass doors.

The "woman's world" features a formal dining room large enough for two enormous buffets and a big table, and there's a whole wall of "built-in" storage. The family kitchen has a pale yellow and white color scheme (lemons on the wallpaper, white vinyl brick floor, yellow formica counters) and two large skylights which give it a sunshine-all-the-time effect. The family living end has a particularly warm and welcoming glow about it. In the "business end," nothing but the best: Whirlpool double ovens, burners and griddle; double door Icemagic refrigerator, Dishwasher, Nu-tone food center, Wasteking disposal, built-in chopping block. Separate service room is equipped with Whirlpool washer and dryer, and a half bath. Double garage plus a carport with extra closed storage.

We do not think it could be replaced for the price of $79,500. But why bother anyway? It's all here!

Carmel uniqueness alive and well

Survey reveals Carmelites resist change

Almost hidden among Carmel's usual flow of tourists last week were two young men who entered the city for a week's study of the uniqueness of Carmel.

Marc Louria, 16, and Chris Hayward, 17, both from Athenian school near Danville, Calif., spent the school's "project week" interviewing residents, tourists, and hippies, asking, "Can Carmel retain its individual identity?"

They found that it could, and would continue to retain that identity if local polititians and voters had their way. ticians and voters had their way.

Every student in Athenian school — "A private, progressive, co-ed, liberal school," according to Marc — spends one week fulfilling a project of their choice. Marc and Chris, gently pushed by chance, decided to survey Carmel.

Their first step was to interview nine prominent citizens and ask 10 questions about living in Carmel. Later in the week they questioned tourists and hippies, trying to determine the relationship between the citizens and the transients.

The citizens chosen were Harriet Meyer, executive secretary of the business association; Clyde S. Klaumann, police chief; former State Senator Fred Farr; Barney Laiolo, Carmel mayor; Hugh Bayless, city clerk; Gunnar Norberg, now running for City Council; Grace Cox of Wells Book store; Murvey Sutton, owner of Neilson's Grocery store; and one man who wished to be unidentified.

Chris and Marc asked them about expansion, the effect of tourism, the economy, isolation, the value of real estate, and the hippies.

"Most people here are against expansion," said Marc. "Some might allow a little annexation, but they usually don't want the city to grow.

People do want the city to grow economically, though, and, correspondingly, don't object to tourists.

"Mr. Bayless said tourists are essential for running Carmel," said Chris, and everyone we talked to agreed with him. The , "and everyone we talked to agreed with him. The town needs their money."

Only the young citizens

Chris Hayward and Mark Louria

voiced any objection to the tourists. "One town kid said tourists are just another thing to walk around," Marc said.

The Carmel doormat was not extended so readily to hippies.

"People, especially the police chief, said hippies are damaging the image of Carmel," said Marc. "The chief said he had received lots of letters from visiters saying they won't come back until the hippie situation is cleared up."

"He also blamed the tripled crime load of the last 15 years mainly on the hippies," he added.

Agreeing, Hugh Bayless said the main problem from outsiders were the "plastic hippies." "Hippies have lost the values of the flower children. They have the same dress, but not the values of peace and love," explained Marc.

Most people made statements similar to Miss Meyer's — "Hippies are neither useful nor ornamental" — but Gunnar Norberg added a moderating note.

"He wasn't overly concerned about them," Chris said, but he did say indiscriminent tourism is bad for Carmel, and if the tourists can't keep Carmel as it is, we don't want them here."

Most of the businessmen did not think real estate in Carmel was too high, according to the survey. "They think the prices are high, but only because of the law of supply and demand" said Marc.

"Grace Cox said 'Carmel is a bargain at any price,'" Chris added. "He told us about a certificate worth $3 that one of the hotels had given out to be used anyplace on the peninsula, and 75% were used in Carmel."

Carmel hasn't been affected by the problems of the large city, according to the businessmen. "Some of them admit there is a parking and water pollution problem, but they aren't very worried," said Marc. "One person said that Carmel had to remain the same to serve as a retreat from big city problems."

Marc agreed. "There's a feeling about Carmel, and when you go to San Francisco you don't have that feeling," he said. "Everyone isn't fighting to get home during the freeway rush hour..."

This nebulous feeling was expressed in various ways by both the tourists and hippies, but many tourists felt the residents should provide more public facilities, especially play areas and telephones.

After the week in Carmel, Chris already had started to disagree with the tourist's position.

"I don't think Carmel should have more public utilities," he said. It's kind of neat that they don't have them; it's like hanging out a sign, "We Don't Have Public Restrooms."

"I would like Carmel to remain just as it is," added Marc, and I hope when we get older we can come back."

The result of their survey — Carmel has and will continue to retain its individual identity.

52-UNIT DEVELOPMENT IN LOWER VALLEY STALLED BY PLANNERS

No decision has been made yet on the application of the Arbor Development Company for permission to build a 52-unit housing project in lower Carmel Valley.

Its request for a change in classification of 8 acres on the Hatton Partition of Rancho Canada de la Segunda, fronting on Carmel Valley Road and easterly of Val Verde Road, was heard again last week by the Monterey County Planning Commission.

Arbor proposes to put the units on 8 acres of land, but a variance is needed from its present restricted classification.

The commission had letters of protest from Col. St. E.P. Tyner, Carmel Knolls Association. The application was continued to the July 8 meeting, and a possible change in the Valley Master Plan will be studied in the meantime.
